Investing in our Youth:

When one thinks of youth camps and organizations such as The Southdale Chaplaincy and Youth Opportunities Unlimited, one may tend to associate them with fun, games and recreation. In actuality they provide that and so much more. These organizations contribute compassion and commitment in helping to build self-identity, self-worth, self-esteem, self-respect, character and leadership which help youth develop their potential to lead positive lives and grow into strong community members.

The Grey Tsunami:

One of the greatest challenges facing everyone over the next decade is what the media has referred to as the "Grey Tsunami". This is the ever increasing number of dementia and chronic conditions that will arise as our population ages and threatens not only our quality of life but also our health care system and economy.

By supporting Alzheimer Society of London and Middlesex (ASLM), Canadian Centre for Activity and Aging (CCAA) and The McCormick Home Foundation, it will help meet the challenges, deal with the reality and manage the necessary change needed for our aging population.
